Abstract

Lastly, learning the Quran has developed rapidly, especially with technology adoption. One of the interesting applications that caught my attention was Mutqinin, a digital platform intended to help people from various backgrounds learn the Quran. This article analyzes it from a corner view of functionality, effectiveness, and impact on the experience of learning the Quran. This analysis begins by looking at the features of Mutqinin, which include learning methods such as tajwid, reading the Quran, and practice and evaluation. Then, the evaluation of the effectiveness of the application is carried out based on user interactivity, ease of navigation, and the quality of the content presented. The main focus of this analysis is the effect of using Mutqinin on understanding and the ability to understand the Quran. The analysis also covers technical elements such as customer support, user data security, and platform adaptability for various devices. In addition, discussions were held regarding the development of Mutqinin, which was adjusted to user feedback. This discussion aimed to emphasize improvements and enhancements that could be made to improve the quality of learning. Hopefully, this analysis will provide a comprehensive insight into the advantages and disadvantages of the Mutqinin application in learning the Quran. The results will help develop Islamic educational technology and help users choose the Quran learning platform that best suits their needs.

Reading the Qur'an properly and correctly is one of the very important sciences that must be possessed by a child from an early age and Muslims as a basis before studying other sciences. Things that may not be so important but are important for Muslims should not be missed. One of them is knowing and reading the hijaiyah letters with the correct tajweed, but he often ignores or forgets. Limited information or time to learn is one of the causes. The science of tajweed is its name. This is very important because the law of studying the Qur'an is farḍu ain, which means it must be given higher priority than studying other disciplines.

"A person who reads the Qur'an skillfully will find a place in heaven together with the noble Messengers. While a person who reads the Qur'an skillfully will find a place in heaven together with the Noble Messenger."

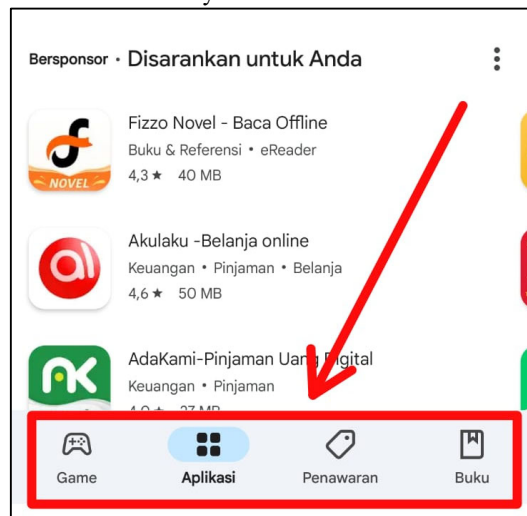

The Purpose of Making it a Program

Advantages and Disadvantages of the Mutqinin Application

The advantages of using mutqinin are as an important basis for improving the reading of the Qur'an, helping participants master makhroj and nature. They do not need to worry about missing material because learning is adjusted to their abilities and their presence (semi-personal). Flexible study time (study time can be changed according to the terms and conditions). You can also move places and study times without any problems.

The Mutqinin application has advantages in improving the quality and quantity of learning the Qur'an because it uses the Al-Itqon book, which is compiled comprehensively and systematically and provides competent teachers in their fields. However, little is known about the shortcomings of this application. The disadvantage is that the mutqinin application was initially free for all, but now it must be paid for and is quite expensive. This application is accessible only for orphans and the poor.

Conclusion

The Application Program Mutqinin aims to increase the quality and quantity of learning the Qur'an. The book Al-Itqon, created based on teachers' experiences tahsin and taken from various Tajweed books, contains six stages for controlling reading the Qur'an with compiled material systematically. In addition, this program offers semi-private learning with flexible time and connection, allowing participants to move places and learn without lost material. Book guide This is based on the experience of dozens of teachers of the Qur'an and according to people from various demographics. In addition, there is also content, such as makhroj posters letters and instructions reading Al-Fatihah.
